Cosimo Marcone was born on 26 august 1959, in Florence. He was imprisoned for seventeen years of an unfair trial. After his release he founded the. the statute of frauds is neither a bar to nor a satisfaction of the claim made in the bill. In the case of Hart v. Littlejohn, 1 Cow. 31, it was held that the statute of limitations did not extend to a demand for an accounting of rents, duties, and profits, and that the defense of the statute of limitations to an action upon a bond for a rent of land could not be made by way of a demurrer. The defense was waived and not made in the pleadings. The other case is distinguished by reason that it was an action on the statute of frauds. The action was upon a bond given by the defendant for the performance of an agreement which was not to be performed within a year from the making thereof, and the plaintiff sought to recover upon the promise, as in the case at bar, for the additional rent. The court, after stating that it was clear that the contract was within the statute of frauds, held that if it had been shown that the promise was made to enable the defendant to obtain money or goods, he would have been estopped from setting up the statute of frauds, and, referring to the long-established rule that the statute of frauds has no application to a promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, said (p. 44): *355 "But as it does not appear that the promise was made to enable the defendant to obtain money or goods from the plaintiff, but merely to bind himself to perform the promise, the court holds that the defendant is not prevented by the statute of frauds from setting up the statute as a defence." The case at bar falls clearly within the principle of the English decisions and cannot be distinguished from the case of Dibdin v. Stewart, 1 Ld. Raym. 614, 615, where the same rule is applied to an executory contract. Decree affirmed.
